

The invention relates to methods and products for manipulating plant metabolism and resistance to infection.